The present book is a revised and translated version of my PhD dissertation, entitled Les thèses illustrées dans les Pays-Bas méridionaux au XVIIe siècle. Étude iconologique des rapports entre arts, sciences et pouvoirs and defended on 22 February 2017 at the Université catholique de Louvain. My first and warmest thanks go to my supervisor Ralph Dekoninck, for his availability, his continual encouragement, and his learned and generous advice. I would like to express my gratitude for the trust he has placed in me and the support he has given me throughout these years of research and writing.

Warm thanks are due to Caroline Heering and Grégory Ems for their invaluable help and insightful advice from the start of my doctoral project. Our numerous exchanges within the Group for Early Modern Cultural Analysis (GEMCA) at the UCLouvain, such a dynamic and welcoming research group, have been very enriching and shaped my exploration of the tradition of thesis prints. My gratitude also goes to my other colleagues at the GEMCA, including in particular Agnès Guiderdoni, who shared her expertise and pertinent advice, Aline Smeesters and Elise Gérardy for their help in translating Latin texts, as well as Elisabeth Aydin, Lise Constant, Muriel Damien, Margaux Dusausoit, Ingrid Falque, Annelyse Lemmens, Sophie Lenaerts, Alessandro Metlica, Delphine Schreuder, Matthieu Somon, and Naïs Virenque for our stimulating conversations on many early modern issues. Collaborations and discussions with other PhD students and post-doctoral fellows met during conferences, summer schools or research stays abroad also contributed to the widening of my expertise in Flemish art, print culture, and visualization of knowledge.

I would also like to thank Sibylle Appuhn-Radtke, Paul Begheyn, Anna Bianco, Jean-Marie Cauchies, Anne D'Hauwer, Nico De Brabander, Rosa De Marco, Martin Degand, Annick Delfosse, Alphons Hamer, Dirk Imhof, Alain Jacobs, Françoise Mirguet, Anne-Françoise Morel, Alexandre Moretus, Goran Proot, Patricia Radelet-de Grave, An Smets, Violet Soen, Victor Stoichita, and Soetkin Vanhauwaert, who kindly shared information, articles or illustrations with me. I am grateful to all the librarians and archivists who facilitated my research and helped me to retrieve material. In addition, I wish to thank Marie-Adélaïde Debray and Briec Beeckmans de West-Meerbeeck for their friendship and support during these years of work.

I am grateful to my PhD examiners, Agnès Guiderdoni, Philippe Bragard, Véronique Meyer, and Koenraad Jonckheere, for their judicious remarks and their encouragement; to the three anonymous readers for Brill for their thoughtful comments and suggestions; to Helen Critchley for her thorough copy-editing work; and to Ivo Romein and Wilma de Weert, who provided me with efficient and patient guidance in the publication process. I am deeply indebted to Walter S. Melion who, as the editor of Brill's Studies on Art, Art History, and Intellectual History, kindly invited me to publish in this series and enthusiastically supervised the completion of the book.

Research for this study was conducted with the assistance of a doctoral fellowship of the F.R.S.-FNRS (Fonds National de la Recherche scientifique, Belgium) from 2012 to 2017. Thanks to scholarships granted by the Belgian Historical Institute of Rome and the Princess Marie-José Foundation, I also had the opportunity to carry out two research stays at the Academia Belgica in Rome, in autumn 2013 and spring 2015. Revisions and purchase of high resolution images for this publication were made possible by the generous support of the Institut des civilisations, arts et lettres (INCAL) at the UCLouvain and the Fondation pour la Protection du Patrimoine Culturel, Historique et Artisanal (Lausanne). A postdoctoral project funded by the FWO (Research Foundation – Flanders) since 2018 has allowed me to continue my research on early modern academic productions at Ghent University. I am particularly grateful to Koenraad Jonckheere, as well as to Sabrina Lind, Maximiliaan Martens, Abigail Newman, Carlotta Striolo, Sophie Suykens, and Elizabeth Vandeweghe for this fruitful working environment at the UGent.

Finally, I offer my profound gratitude to my parents Marianne and Étienne, my sisters Marie-Caroline and Diane, and my husband Antoni, who all provided me with ideal working conditions, supported me with patience, and encouraged me until the end of this long endeavor. Adopting the devices of dedication and mise en abyme, two themes developed in my book, I dedicate this “thesis on thesis prints” to my daughters Elinor and Camille and my baby-to-be.
